Characterized as a picturesque town with many fine country estates, Dover is a strictly residential community that offers a quiet lifestyle, a respected school system, and highly developed recreational amenities. Strict zoning laws and cooperative planning between the residents and local government ensure the continuity of this highly desirable atmosphere. The community is positively influenced and characterized by the natural beauty of its rural atmosphere and the handsome selection of older, stately homes on large lots. Newer developments provide spacious single-family homes in a variety of architectural styles. Recognized as a center for equestrian activities, Dover boasts more than 200 miles of bridle paths. Other recreational facilities include Channing Pond and Dover-Westwood Conservation Club. Caryl Park offers tennis courts, picnic areas, playing fields, and walking trails.
