In a class of its own for the quality and quantity of antique homes, Duxbury is a lovely residential community with the added prestige of an oceanside setting. Charming older homes are sometimes on the market, although newer construction in a variety of pleasing architectural styles is more readily available. With its ocean setting, Duxbury offers many recreational opportunities for water-oriented activities including a yacht club, ocean beaches, town dock, and boating facilities. Other popular pastimes include golf, tennis and ice skating. Numerous civic, social, cultural and athletic organizations create a welcoming atmosphere. Among the many daily conveniences are ample retail development and a wide variety of skilled professionals who meet routine healthcare needs. Good schools combine with nearby opportunities for higher education in public and private colleges and universities.
