This comfortable, rural community along the South Shore is a town of rolling country hills and beautiful old shade trees that grace fine old colonial residences. Located less than three miles from the coast of the historic North River, Norwell has carefully protected its rural atmosphere with stringent zoning regulations. The requirements for new-home construction in the Norwell area includes a minimum property allocation of one acre. Planners and residents have agreed to support the preservation of open space and the natural charm of this panoramic New England community. Because of this pristine atmosphere, Norwell has attracted many affluent professionals and equestrians who appreciate the opportunity for acreage and horse privileges. Outdoor enthusiasts can participate in swimming, canoeing, and winter sports like cross-country skiing, as well as the variety of activities sponsored by the recreation commission.
